

Councilwoman Bergin Honors Young Artist for Charity Work

Tuesday, 13 July 2010 14:22

At the June 22nd Town Board meeting, Councilwoman Trish Bergin Weichbrodt honored eleven year old Olivia Boulter. Olivia took it upon herself to sell original paintings of birds in the hope of helping aid what the BP oil spill has destroyed.

She has already raised over an astonishing $140,000, and she continues to paint. It was an honor and privilege for the Councilwoman to recognize such an amazing young girl. Front row: Olivia Boulter, James Boulter. Second row: Patricia Curci, Deputy Town Clerk; Councilman Steve Flotteron; Councilwoman Trish Bergin Weichbrodt; Supervisor Phil Nolan; Councilman Gene Parrington; and Councilman John Edwards.